In the present case, Tseno-kwo-fan, who is generilly believed to be at the bottom of the whole plot, was sent down to Tientsin to arrange the affair; and it is not very surprising that he soon declares the task to be beyond his enpacity; while CHUNG How, who is at once held by the Pekin Authorities to be the person immediately, responsible for the outrage, contrives to talk over the outraged foreigners, and is allowed to desecrate with caught on the bill side had state I that if his caphis presence, the funeral of his victims.

Such is the upshot of our endeavours to ettle matters of this kind by negotiation with the Chinese. It is needless to recapitulate all the circumstances which go to prove Chune How's complicity in the affair. In the face of the last news hardly anyone can have the heart to do so. It is surely uscless to urge the strongest facts, when we have placed ourselves in the position of asking criminals to punish themselves. The Hotel d'Europe, which was presided over by Mr. O. Dillon, acting French Consul. Ti We are informed that the proceedings went off very satisfactorily, and that the best feeling prevailed throughout, nothing of a political or party nature being alluded to by any present. The following, though not the precise words. embodies the substance of the toast to the Emperer, which was proposed by Mr. Dillon:—After expressing the pleasure he had, as a private individual, to preside at the banquet, and; n his cupacity as agent of the government, to see the spontaneity with which the Fete Napo leon was celebrated, he went on to observe that it was natural that when compatriots met in such a distant part of the world, they should feel strongly the ties which united them to their country. Such was the sentiment which had brought the company together; but how ever much they might rejoice at the return of their national Festival, they could not forget the exeptional position in which their country was now situated, and the sufferings of those of her children who were called upon to defend her; and they awaited with painful but manly anniety. further news respecting the present troubles, and were ready to make any sacrifaces for their native land. In Hongkong, however, they were living in an entral country where persons belong-ing to all nationalities, were bound together by interest and sympathy. Whatever might arise, let them be firm and calm and suppress within thems lves the emotions which agitated them. What ever their nature, the news, which might come from across the meas, would produce in them

BARON RIGHTOFEN'S LEPTER The practical importance of the loss is based WyroLD CHAULERGE CUP, FOR FOUR CLES. "(Continued.) on some of its prominent properties. In the Chirin had a more favourable climate, it would rank among the most productive countries in the world, on account of the general distributihn of the locas. It is very probable that it did cank high in this respect, in early historic times when the mountains were wooded and kept the climate moist. The entire surface of the locas is at present under oultivation. But owing to its property of being enaily percolated by water, it needs more frequent and prolonged rains than most other kinds of soil, and if rain fails in time of sowing, then the tilled ground will be carried away by the winds, the sords exposed to the sun and not germinate at all. I travelled for days through regions where such had been the case this year, and the otherwise fertite country had an extremely arid aspect. Another important property is the tendency to vertical cleaving. It creates the conditions for cheap dwellings, of which a large proportion of the population avail themselves. To it, too, is due the rapid progress of denudation. The rivers which carry away the loss separate it into its constituent parts, viz. the sand, the loam, and the carbonate of lime. The latter is probably carried in solution into the sen, while the very fine sand and tho loam are separately redeposited, creating, here an arid, and there, a Houses, Lands, I chements, &c. fertility which exceeds that of the loss itself. The sandy regions prevail where the rivers emorge from the mountains, while the rich alluvial loam is carried to the lower country. - It would be of interest to have a geological map of the great plain, with the formations of losss, sand, and alluvial loam marked separately. 8. Region of Hwaikingfu. The northern bank of the Yellow River is flat, and in this region not protected by embankments, because the land rises slowly towards the north. After crossing a belt of fine sand, resulting from the deposition of the sandy component of the loess, and marking the extent of ordinary innundation, another kind of sail is renched which is a sandy loam of moderate fertility. Then follows the region of Hwaikingfu and Chingwha, which is one of the most beautiful spots in the plains of China, It is a perfect garden, rendered park like by numerous plantations of trees and shrubs, among which thick bosquets of bamboo contrast with gloomy groves of cypress. The picturesque outlines of the neighbouring Taibangshan range form an admirable background. The soil is very fertile, being in fact a fine extract of lusse, and well manured. The luxurious growth of the cereals recalls to mind the richest agricultural countries in Europe. Numerous streams of clear water descend from the Tai Hang Shan, and the inhabitants make the amplest use of them for irrigation The density of the population surpasses belief I do not recollect to have seen d' more thickly settled region in China. In consequence, the extraordinary produce of the fields is but little more than sufficient to nourish its own growers, and the quantity of gmin exported is small in proportion to what is raised. The city of Hwai King Fu is large, but not the seat of much trade. It is far surpassed, in this respect, by the mart of Ching Wha Chin 35 li nertheast, which is the great depot for the coal from the neighbouring mines, for iron and coal from Tse Chan Fu in Shansi. for the raried produce of the plain, and for all goods imported from Tientsin vik Tankou-The town is exceedingly populous, and, to all appearance, a very large amount of small business is transacted there, The main street is | Esq., with Stabling and Garden attached, Gas over a mile in length, and was thronged with four wheeled and two-wheeled carts, wheelharrows, coolies and pack animals, when I passed through it. Wheat and barley are the staples of the agricultural produce of this plain. Both are sown in November and harvested in June. The second crop consists chiefly of millet. Neither cotton nor poppy are planted, and tobacco is raised only in soull quantity. Besides grain and flour, the exports from Ching Wha consist ot authracite, iron castings, wrought iron, pig iron, pottery, bamboo ware, and fruit. Two other articles of export are peculiar to Hwai King Fu. One consists in steel ware, such as razors, scinsors, knives, &c., for the manufacture of which Hwai King Fu is celebrated; the steel is imported from Wu Hu and Hankow. The other is a costly medical root, by the name of Ti-hwang, which does not thrive in any other place in Ohina, and is therefore exported in all directions of the compass. This Ti-bwang and quite different from tai bwang or rhubarb. It is sold at 850 cash per cattie, and the total represent a value of from Tls. 800,000 to one

The trade of Chingwho takes various directions. There is a lively intercourse with a small shipping place on the Yellow River, at the distance of 70 li. whither authracite, iron, and pottery are carried, to be shipped ; 1st down the river, to Tienliangohing and Lungmenkou, whence they are distributed by land east and south, as we are informed, by Mr. Elias; 2nd, seroes the river to Sz'ehinhien, and then by land to Milien, Juchau, and Lushaubien; and 3rd, up the river to Meneteinbien, Honanfu and the western country. Tobacco from linee, hemp and cotton go in return from the south to Chingwha. The most important trade roads are eastward to Sinwubien and Tankowchin, wery conveniently situated on Marine Lot and northward and northwestward to Shansi. In regard to the latter, I will say a few words premises and Mesers. GIBE, LIVINGSTON & when trenting on that province. Tunkou takes a great portion of the mineral and metallurgical produce of Shansi, besides grain from Hwaikingfu, and sends, in return, the imports which it receives from Tiontsin. The ratio in which foreign goods are represented among these is surprisingly smull.

THE HENLEY REGATTA. The Henley Regatta came off on the 30th on moderate terms. June and lat July, the results of the last day's rowing having come forward by the Brindisi route. On the first day the first three heats for the Diamond Challenge Sculls, were won respectively by R. W. Griffith, of Jesus Co'lege, Cambridge, J. B. Close, First Trinity, Cambridge, and A. de L. Long, of the London Rowing Club, the first two heats for the Grand Challenge Cup (eight-oars) by a Kingston Crow and a London Crew; and the first two heats for the Silver Goblets (pair-oars) by a Cambridge Crew consisting of John B. Close and James B. Close of 1st Trinity, and a Kingston Craw consisting of S. L. Corrie and

The final heats were rowed off on the Is July, the Diamond Sculls falling to John B. Close, the Grand Challenge Cup to an Oxford Etonian Crew, and the Silver Goblets to Corrie and Hall of the Kingston Bowing Club, The final heat for the soulls was interesting from Long's devious rowing. He started before the signal and managed to foul Closs twice during the race. The latter was consequently beaten by Griffith, but claimed to pull against him again. He was allowed to do so, and won as he ived by four lengths. The following are particulars of the final
